

Missionary John Holtz currently serves as a Native Christians Counselor on the Native American Mission. He and his wife Mindy live in East Fork on the White Mountain Apache Reservation in Arizona.

Missionary Holtz graduated from Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary in 1989. His first call was to serve Mt. Olive in Iron Mountain, Mich. Then in 1997, the Lord called Missionary Holtz to the mission field in Zambia, Africa. He served there from 1997-2008, serving as a supervising pastor to congregations in the rural areas of the Eastern Province. In 2008 the Holtz's moved to Malawi, Africa, where Missionary Holtz served on the One Africa Team until 2022 when he joined the Native American Mission team.

John and Mindy have two adult daughters: Rachel and Heather. The girls spent their childhood in Africa but now reside in the U.S. Rachel and husband Christopher live in Hendersonville, N.C., and Heather lives in Durham, N.C.
